Human Rights

Human rights are rights which ALL people are entitled to, despite their nationality, gender, color, religion, or language. Violations of human rights include (but are not limited to) the torture and abuse of people and unfair trials or treatment; restricted freedoms based on gender (women’s rights) or ethnicity; and human trafficking. Start researching this topic by looking for definitions of human rights and examples of human rights violations. Ask yourself: Who are affected? Where and why are these people affected? Common human rights violations include women’s rights and human trafficking. Why is this? Look at human rights issues in the UAE then look at human rights on a global scale. What is being done to help these people? Find initiatives and organizations that work to help people whose rights are being violated. A few examples of these include:
