What is QuickFind?

- A combined search across several (not all) library databases to find resources.
- Type your search terms and click on Search, and the results are listed as in the next image
Refine your search here by clicking the boxes provided.

This is an automatically generated suggestion of databases relevant to health promotion.
Searching effectively

Brainstorm key words, including related words and phrases, e.g.

- health promotion or disease prevention
- health education strategies
- program planning and evaluation
- public health problems

≈ Put phrases in quotes ➔ “health promotion”
≈ Combine keywords ➔ “health promotion” AND (wellbeing OR healthiness)
  - “health promotion” AND UAE
≈ Try truncation ➔ health promot* strategies
  [promotion, promoting, promote, etc.]

Try adding these basic phrases or words when searching

A Planning and Evaluation in Health Promotion and Health Education search can start with:

Academic Search Complete (EBSCOhost database)

- Articles on wide range of subjects including health promotion and education
- Can limit to full-text as indicated in the image below
Library Resource Guide

ProQuest
- Articles on a wide range of subjects, including business, education, health, science, and technology
- Can limit to full-text, peer reviewed using the spaces provided on the ProQuest search page

Health Reference Center (Gale)
- Broad subject coverage including some health-related topics
- Can limit to full-text by selecting the relevant spaces on the right hand side of the results page

Citation Management (use RefWorks for managing citations in APA style as required)
- Go to the library web site: http://zu.libguides.com/citation
- Find the citation management software named RefWorks on that page
- Click on it
- Sign up for a new account (if unsure how to proceed, consult http://zu.libguides.com/citation, and then contact the librarian).
- Most databases allow exporting citations to RefWorks so that creating bibliographies becomes easier
